WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY [illegible] 186[illegible]

"Is there no Hope?"

The results of the late election in this State were so emphatic that the Advertiser, for a few days, bowed before the great demonstration of the public will—ceased to be published—but subsequently reappeared, shorn of its size, and otherwise exhibiting symptoms as do other culprits after trial and examination of repentance for past deeds. It even told the public that its course would be changed; that it would cease to be a party or political paper, at least, until such time as by this policy, it could obtain strength enough by the patronage of patriotic citizens, to resume its old track, which had long been marked by semi treason.

When the impartial historian shall write of our times, he will say, that when our Government was formed all our people regarded slavery as unjust, an injury to the white and to the black; and they looked forward to the period when, by the progress of liberal and just principles, slavery should cease in the United States—when no man should own the soul and body of his fellow immortal man. As time passed, the tardiness with which emancipation progressed in the States, and a disposition that seemed to be increasing in a portion of them was exhibited to perpetuate and extend slavery, gave rise to a party in the North known as Abolitionists—never extensive, never strong enough to elect a single member of Congress—a party made up of a few clergymen, some laymen, but embracing as its chief strength many persons noted as "strong-minded women."

The country, at that period, was divided into two great political parties. The South acted together—the North was divided. It became an object with a Northern party to unite with the great Southern party and thus carry the election of the President and Vice President and majorities in both Houses of Congress. These secured the patronage and power of the Government in their hands. In order to cement this union of the party North with the party South, it was the policy of the party North to represent their opponents there, as all Abolitionists, seeking to give freedom to Southern slaves—to place the knife and the brand into their hands for the destruction of the whites. These representations—false and unjust as they were—were constantly persisted in, and the Southern people were made to believe that the people of the North were murderers and assassins and only sought opportunity to deluge the South in the blood of her people.

The political leaders in the Southern States, looking forward to the period when, from the progress of population the South must become inferior to the North in wealth, in numbers and in power—when they would cease to have the control of the Government and when they must submit to be governed by a majority of the people, as the North had been in all time past—seconded the efforts of the Northern members of the party, and instilled into Southern people the belief of the falsehoods which had been charged upon the North by a party of her own citizens. Hence it was that of Northern men and women going South, some were maltreated, some tarred and feathered and others murdered, merely because they were Northern citizens and suspected of holding abolitionist sentiments.

Verily the wails of wronged, maltreated murdered Northern people—thus murdered indirectly by Northern mercenaries—have gone up to heaven in condemnation of the unprincipled politicians of the North who have in this way, borne false witness against a large majority of the people of the North.

Ambitious Southern politicians had been looking forward for a long period to the time as we have said, when they should cease to control the Government, and had, by preconcerted movements, made themselves ready on its arrival to break up the Government and establish another on the basis of human slavery. They understood well the character of their friends North—that their professed love for the South was merely the love of office and power—and that while they were willing to use those friends as long as their capability would be of service to them the time would come when they would separate from that branch of the party whose servility was only assured by the patronage they controlled in turn.

The defeat of Mr. Douglas and the nomination of Mr. Buchanan as President was a well managed feat on the part of the South. They knew him to be a [illegible] man. They knew General Jackson's opinion of him, and they were perfectly aware that as President the South could use him for their own purposes. Southern men filled the Cabinet—Southern men filled the bench of the Supreme Court. The South had every thing in her own way. The Court played into the hands of the South, gave decisions on questions of human slavery adverse to all previous decisions, and the Administration was ready to sustain its decisions. This Administration sought, by force of arms and Government money, to extend the area of slavery on the west of Missouri. Failing to do so, it hastened measures for breaking up the Government. Jeff Davis succeeded in carrying a measure in Congress authorizing the sale of a large portion of the Government arms at a tenth of their value, or less, to States and others, who chose to buy them, with a private understanding that the Southern States, which were plotting treason, should obtain them. Thus passed out of the hands of the Government a large amount of arms into the hands of men who intended to use them to take the life of the Government. The Cabinet, too, was controlled, as we have said, by the South, and its leading members used their power to send the arms collected in the Government arsenals in the North—cannon, small arms, and other munitions of war—to the South, and out of the hands of the Government—so as to make Government defenceless on land when treason should strike her blow. The same measure was adopted with our navy. It was scattered to the four quarters of the world when Southern traitors seized our Southern mints, custom houses, post offices, arsenals and forts. The nation finally became aroused when Southern treason opened its batteries on Sumter, and when a Southern army was raised to seize the Capital and archives of the nation.

These measures of the South cut the ligaments that bound the democracy of the North to the South—except with a few men, editors and politicians, and their camp followers, who had treason in their hearts. They then, as ever, sympathized with the South, and as ever, did all they could to encourage the rebellion and to render it successful.

When it was found that these traitors were acting against the Government—seeking its life—scattered about the city of Washington, in its public offices, everywhere, where the previous Administration could place them; that if suffered to remain and practice their hellish acts the Government could not be saved—and the best hope of man would fall to the earth—Government availed itself of the provision of the Constitution, suspended the writ of habeas corpus, and arrested these traitors, placing them in confinement—and thus put a stop to their machinations.

How did a howl go up from all secessionists and secession symathisers against this measure, absolutely necessary to sustain the Government? They said it was a violation of the Constitution—and they had rather the Government of the United States should sink into anarchy and ruin than that the Constitution should be violated! No man can doubt their desire that the traitors in and about Washington should have been permitted to remain and plot treason, without let or hindrance, in the very heart of the Government.

Time passed on. The South had been for three years preparing for war. Jeff Davis while sitting as a Senator in the Senate of the United States, had made out his list of Generals, and had given them their directions.—Soon after leaving his seat he had an army near Washington, and the chief officers of the bogus government had declared that its object was to capture Washington and make conquest of Northern cities. What was to be done? Under the authority of the Constitution, which gave the President power to call out troops in case of rebellion, he called out 75,000 men. Another howl went up from Northern traitors, and the echo was taken up even here in Oregon, that the President had again violated the Constitution—was a despot, seeking the destruction of the Government, with the object of erecting a despotism on its ruins.

Anon the Manassas battle took place, and the Government troops were defeated. How did the rejoicings of the traitors everywhere go up—and not unmarked by the God who had in all times, in adverse as in prosperous circumstances marked this people and this Government with his peculiar favor.

That battle of Manassas—its results—the rejoicings of traitors—Heaven used to arouse the people to the awful magnitude of that rebellion which threatened the destruction of our Constitution, our Union, our Government, and which would be likely to open a chapter in American History, in all its anarchy, its ruin, in the destruction of all human rights and all human blessings, which would have scarcely found a parallel in all ancient history.

We say that the battle of Manassas awoke our people to the responsibilities which rested upon them, for themselves, their children and their children's children, to remote generations. They accepted their duty. They rushed to arms. They have given, and will give their lives, by thousands and hundreds of thousands, if necessary, to roll back the tide of treason to the shores of the Gulf. They are doing this and they will do it. The Government is to be sustained, at what cost it may be. If necessary to accomplish this object, that curse of slavery, which a distinguished Southern man declared "HE KNEW NO ATTRIBUTE OF DEITY WHICH COULD LOOK UPON IT WITH COMPOSURE," will be blotted out!—Whether this shall be done by the persistence of traitors in their present course, time will show. Freedom, the existence of our nation is worth more than slavery. Let those who think otherwise, leave this free land for another where their instincts and their principles can have free range.

Slavery is the great cause which has brought the present evils upon the country. This war will be closed in a manner that will remove slavery from the action of political parties. Men are found everywhere—and some of them have appended their names to a document for the reorganization of the Democratic party—who would make slavery the great measure of their party—who would seek, when the Stars and Stripes shall again float over the whole country—to bring slavery again into the political field—again to make it a connecting link between politicians North and South—and, in process of time, again bring on another ruinous, devastating war. We have no idea this design can be realized. There will be found scarcely a family in the North—there is not a neighborhood or settlement which has not and will not number its victims to this war. The people here understand its cause and its objects. It is the Moloch on whose unholy altars have our sons in myriads been butchered. Will they forget? NEVER! NEVER!

"THERE IS HOPE." There is hope in the continued patriotism of our people who will not bow the knee to Baal until this Government is consolidated in all its grand proportions. Traitors who spit treason, as is done in the pages of the Advertiser—and whose moccasin tracks cannot be disguised—may cling to their hopes, the hope that our country will be dissevered—that the South cannot be brought to reason—that *Joe Lane*ism can again become a cordial in redeemed Oregon—but their hopes, as all the hopes of the wicked, are doomed to perish.

THERE IS HOPE—in the valor of our brave sons—in the skill of our Generals—in the devotion of our people—in the returning good sense of our misguided brethren—in the favor of that God who will not permit the great beacon light of free government to be quenched in darkness.

Letter from Elk City.

FROM OUR RAMBLING CORRESPONDENT.

ELK CITY, W. T., June 20, 1862.

I arrived at this embryo city yesterday. I am not able at present, to give you much reliable information as to the richness or extent of the mines in this vicinity. I learn from an old acquaintance who has been here some six months, that mining operations are just commencing. The snow has nearly all disappeared from the surrounding mountains.—The streams would have been low enough to permit successful mining three weeks ago, but during that time it has rained almost constantly, which has kept the creeks full. A few days cessation has inspired the miners with the hope that the "shower is over." In a few days I intend to take a 'stroll' through the different mining localities, when I will be better able to tell you of their richness and extent. Gold dust is worth $16 per ounce. I was surprised to find so many good buildings in this "hole in the mountains." I notice two very large frame buildings in course of erection, which must cost the proprietors a snug sum of money. Lumber is worth from 12 to 15 cents per foot, cut by whip saws.—There is no saw mill in this region.

The following are the prices of provisions in this city at present:—Flour, 35 cents per pound; bacon 50 cts per pound; coffee and sugar each, 50 cents per pound. Picks are worth $6, shovels $5,—both scarce in market.

An unfortunate occurrence took place here on the 18th, the day before I arrived, the particulars of which, as near as I can ascertain, are as follows: A man by the name of Darcy, some time last fall, borrowed $50 of F. Weller, formerly of Portland, for which he gave a note and a written agreement that in default of payment of the amount on the 5th inst., a certain house and lot in this city, the property of Darcy, was to belong to Weller. Darcy returned here on the 10th inst., and took possession of the house and refused to pay the money. Weller commenced a suit to eject Darcy from the premises. The jury decided that the house rightfully belonged to Weller, and a writ of ejectment was issued and placed in the hands of Constable N. C. Tuter, who served the same on Darcy. Darcy refused to peaceably obey, and swore he never would leave the premises alive. Tuter reported the fact to the Justice, who ordered him to use force if necessary. When Tuter returned to the house and was about to use force to put Darcy out, Darcy put his hand upon his knife and was in the act of drawing it, when Tuter drew his revolver and shot Darcy. The ball went into the stomach and came out near the back bone. Tuter was arrested and committed for trial at the next term of the District Court for this District. Darcy is still alive, but he cannot possibly live long. Tuter was sent to Lewiston to be placed in the hands of the Sheriff of this county.

On my way in here, I met large numbers of men going back. I talked with a good many, and they all told the same story,—that there was not gold enough to pay—that all the paying diggings were occupied, &c.

Warren Davis, of Portland, is here. He has just returned from a prospecting tour of a week. He says there is good hill diggings near the American river which will pay from 10 to 25 cents to the pan, but the water is too far off.

RAMBLER.

The telegraph line is not yet in working condition beyond Green River, where the principal difficulty appears to be. The last overland dispatch was brought from Green River to Fort Bridger by stage, and an operator has been sent to that place from Salt Lake. Frequent thunder storms impede all working of the line.

GOLD FROM THE NORTH.—The San Francisco Bulletin says: The Sierra Nevada brought down a handsome lot of Gold from the North—$201,744 from Portland, probably Salmon river gold; and $12,800 from Victoria, a token of Cariboo—in all $214,544.

"OLD STAGERS" has been at work—vide the items in last evening's Advertiser.

THE DAILY OREGONIAN may be [illegible] the Franklin Book Store [illegible] Front street

FIREMAN'S CELEBRATION.—We publish this morning, by particular request, a somewhat [illegible] communication from "H & L," relative to the reported proceedings of a meeting held by a delegation of Firemen in the Truck House of the Hook & Ladder company on Saturday evening last, to determine upon celebrating the coming Fourth of July in a body representing the Fire Department of this city. We published the proceedings of this meeting just as they were furnished us by the Secretary of the meeting, and knew nothing of there being any serious feeling of opposition to this measure until we received the communication referred to. We are sorry indeed that a squabble should arise between the several companies relative to the celebration, and hope, for the credit of the city, and particularly for themselves, that no conflict will arise which may result in discredit to the whole fraternity. We would be much pleased to see the whole corps belonging to the Fire Department of the city come out on that day in parade dress, but as we live in a free country and are more than ever free on the day which we commemorate in token of our freedom, therefore we simply remark to those who do not wish to participate in such a demonstration, that they are at perfect liberty to remain at home—or do something else,—while those who may desire to come out will have equal freedom to do so or not as it shall seem to them best, leaving to each and all to chose their own mode of keeping and honoring the day, with no man to hinder or make afraid.

DROWNED.—A body of a man was found yesterday afternoon, at Couch's wharf, by Mr. Kellog, in a state of decomposition, with a stone weighing 18 pounds attached to his neck. An inquest was held by Justice Bair, and the jury rendered a verdict that they believed death was occasioned by self drowning, or in other words, that the man had committed suicide by drowning himself. Two private papers were found upon the body, one being an order and the other a receipt, both of which were directed to Col. P. Vault, also a pair of brass spectacles, and the general supposition is that the person was old Col. Vault, late of Jacksonville, Oregon. Col. Vault was seen in this city some four or five weeks ago, since which nothing has been heard of him. The fact of those two papers which belonged to Col. T. Vault, being found upon the dead body is strong circumstantial evidence that he must have been the unfortunate individual. The body was immediately buried in the city grave yard.

BUSINESS.—Yesterday was quite a busy day on our streets, and we were again favored with the sight of a blockade on Front street, from Alder to Taylor, by drays and trucks heavily loaded with freight for the Idaho. Quite a rain shower came up in the evening, which was not very favorable to the exposed condition of flour, salt, and sugar sacks, though it probably added weight to some of the articles which might have otherwise lost by evaporation.

THE PANORAMA AGAIN.—We are requested to announce that Mr. Perry, proprietor of "Kopius' Mammoth Panorama of a 'Tour through Europe,'" will exhibit this magnificent painting on Friday and Saturday evening next at the Garden Field House, somewhere in the [illegible] of this city.

The Postoffice will be open from 7 till 9 A. M. on the Fourth of July, when it will close until the arrival of the Overland Mail.

GAS.—By notice published in advertisements, it will be seen that gas will be turned on the street mains to-day. Joyful news!

SECESSION RAMPANT.—We learn from Mr. B. F. Beatty, who arrived on Monday evening's boat, from Walla Walla, that certain parties, among whom were some two or three county officials of that county, who are avowed Secessionists, maliciously and cowardly undertook, first to assassinate and violently maltreat, and after failing in this, then falsely prosecute Mr. Beatty for sedition, simply because he had the courage to say that he was a Union man, and evinced a willingness to befriend the Volunteers stationed at that Post, whenever assistance might be needed. He states that a Convention was called to meet in Walla Walla, which purported to be a Union Convention for the nomination of candidates for the approaching election. That at this Convention, a strong Secession element undertook to control the nominations, but finding that they were about to fail, tried to break up the convention in a row. That a [illegible], by the name of Anderson struck a Volunteer with a big stone, knocking him down, because he said he was not ashamed to wear the badge of a soldier in the present national [illegible]. That Deputy Sheriff Porter saw the soldier maltreated, but instead of promptly arresting the offending party, advised him to leave town for a day or two. That the friends and comrades of the wounded volunteer called upon the Deputy Sheriff that evening, and demanded the arrest of Anderson, or to know the reason why he was not arrested. That the Deputy Sheriff undertook to excuse himself by false representations, and that Mr. Beatty promptly told the Deputy, in their presence, that he was telling a falsehood, and that for this reason, he (Beatty) was arrested on the Monday following, upon complaint of said Deputy, charging him with the crime of sedition and trying to excite the [illegible] to acts of violence. That after numerous false and malicious [illegible] on the part of this Porter and his Secession advisers and [illegible] Mr. Beatty was examined by the Justice of the Peace on Tuesday evening, [illegible] (the Justice) was satisfied that he did [illegible] could not be sustained [illegible] gave Mr. Beatty [illegible] from any further [illegible] in the matter, this being done without even going to trial. After being so discharged, Mr. Beatty left the place for this city.

The above are some of the principal facts connected with this high handed outrage upon the rights of a peaceable and loyal citizen, committed by treason sympathizing county officials of Walla Walla county, which should receive the unqualified condemnation of every patriotic lover of his country. Many other indignities were imposed upon Mr. Beatty, but space will not permit us to give them in further detail. We shall probably refer to this matter again.

[illegible] achieved [illegible] [illegible] President of the meeting, [illegible] Committee of H. & L. Co. that [illegible] their own hall [illegible] reporter should have used all his endeavors to exhibit his meeting [illegible] [illegible] would have been well for him to have stated that a vote of thanks was [illegible] the H. & L. Co. for the use of their hall. We [illegible] nine of the reporter in the entire suppression of [illegible] Firemen's parade. That [illegible] passed and published a resolution to have a parade on their own hook, independent of all other Companies, and afterwards finding that the one on amount [illegible] and that a military parade [illegible] Fourth of July style would be attended with great expense, attempted to force the rest of the Department to join with them and share the glory and expense. That No. 2 [illegible] a call majority voted to join them. That No. 1 [illegible] join in a Department parade [illegible] and that H. & L. Co. absolutely declined to parade [illegible]. That at present the only prospect there is of a Firemen's parade is that No. 3 and [illegible] of No. 2 will [illegible] march to the [illegible] [illegible] their [illegible] the day we celebrate. WHAT THE LONDON TIMES NOW THINKS.—Not long since the London Times tried to cry down the United States, saying that it could not obtain soldiers, money nor credit. It now ruminates thus:

"Not if all the resources of this country were at the disposal of Mr Bright and his friends, and all our power were thrown into the Northern scale, could we add to the strength or the chances of the Federals in this singular contest. We might send them ships, but they have got as many as they want. They have already possession of the seas, and the whole British navy could give them nothing more. We might lend them money, but of this, too, [illegible] they have got enough to allow of a present expenditure of £80,000 a day. As to sending them men, all the effective troops now serving in England might be landed at New York without causing any perceptible increase in the fabulous number of the Northern armies. We might send them three times as many soldiers as we sent to Canada without adding above five per cent to their forces in the field. No ruler in the world, not even the first Napoleon, ever disposed of so many men or so much money as Abraham Lincoln. He has fully 650,000 troops now under arms, and it is boasted that he could double that number. His finances may rest on a stable foundation, but he has at any rate enough and to spare for the time. In no political or military operations have the Federals ever been hampered by the want of men or money, and if they had to spend some time in turning citizens into soldiers, their enemies were under the same obligation. Intervention, therefore, on behalf of the North would be simply a nullity, for no alliance could add to its power or promote its ends."

THE OLD GIANTS OF CALIFORNIA.—There were giants once on this coast, all the denials of savans and doubters, notwithstanding.—Not less than four well known cases have been noted of the discovery of the remains of the giant Californians of the Sierra Nevadas—to wit. First—a skull bone was found in Trinity county in 1850; second—there were found in Tuolumne county, in 1860, a thigh bone and skull of a man 12 feet high; third—there were discovered near Jacksonville, in Southern Oregon, in May, 1862, a pair of human jaw bones of the immense breadth of 7 inches; and fourth—there were discovered, in 1862, near the Mission of Ignacio de Kadakaman, in latitude 28° N., on the Pacific coast of Lower California, the vertebræ, skull, ribs, etc., of a man 11 feet in height, which were found by one of the old Jesuit priests. These accounts, with several others on human fossils of California and Mexico, as disinterred by the gold miners with their wonder working water machinery, may be found in the Notes on the Indians of California, now in the course of publication in the Farmer of San Francisco. Such remains of the ancient races ought to be preserved. The skull or other remains of a giant twelve feet high, is worth its weight in gold, in London or Paris.—Bulletin.

WHAT A REBEL PAPER SAYS.—The Richmond Examiner of the 8th of May says that if Richmond falls into the hands of the Federals all is over with the Confederacy, as the fall of the rebel Capitol and the flight of the rebel Government would constitute such a striking evidence of Federal power as would thoroughly discourage any intention on the part of Europe of offering intervention. "All the world," it says, "would thereafter turn a deaf ear to our arguments and shut their eyes on a painful struggle which they would regard as certain to arrive at a tragical conclusion."

BISHOP SIMPSON.—Bishop Simpson is expected to preside over the Oregon Conference which meets at Vancouver, August 6th, and the California Conference, which meets at San Francisco, September 10th. He was expected to go California by the overland route, starting May 8th, with Dr. John Evans, of Evanston, lately appointed Governor of Nebraska, but subsequently changed his mind, and now takes the steamer at New York.

THE COLORADO HUMBUG.—It is said the Colorado mines do not contain a drop of water. Of those who went out to that region, 150 are living several miles from the diggings, on the river, engaged in butchering and packing water to the mines. The water they sell at one bit per gallon. The mining is done on the "dry wash" plan. The country is a dreary sand desert with no shrub or tree save the sage and cactus.

GEN. SCOTT'S PREDICTION.—Last fall, but a short time before he resigned the General-in-Chief, Gen. Scott told a member of Congress from the West that the backbone of the rebellion would be broken this May. "Can't it be done before, General?" "No, sir; no, sir; broken in May, sir. Can't be done before, sir."—Wash. Cor. Trib.

Capt. Wilson, who recaptured the Emilie St. Pierre from the prize crew, has been formally presented, by numerous Liverpool merchants, with a valuable service of plate and a gold chronometer; also, with a sextant from his own crew, and with £2000 by the owners of the ship.

TWO ILLUMINATIONS.—On the 16th of February, 1861, New Orleans was illuminated in honor of the secession of Louisiana. On the 25th of April, 1862, it was illuminated by the burning of gunboats, steamers, and cotton of the rebels, in commemoration of its death.

DELAWARE POLITICS.—In Delaware parties are dividing on the Emancipation Message of the President. Judge Fisher, the present able representative of that State in Congress will probably be the candidate of the Emancipation party for Governor.

The imports of foreign merchandise at New York, since January 1st, were $6[illegible],340,000 against $66,434,000 in the corresponding period of 1861, and the exports of merchandise during the same term were $46,848,000, against $40,820,000, last.

CHANCE FOR THE YANKEES.—The Emperor of Russia has authorized the importation into Odessa and other Southern ports, for six years, for purpose of trial, of detached portions of agricultural implements—as plow shares, colters, teeth of harrows, free of duty.

There were 10,277 letters sent East in the mail bags per steamer Golden Age.

The exports of treasure for 1862 amount to $16,177,044, which is $919,226 less than for the first half of last year.

A dispatch from Carson City, N. T., of June 24, says: "The daily Overland mail is now leaving regularly for the East. A large amount of mail matter goes forward. It is probable that complete regularity in the arrival and departure of the mails will be re-established within ten days. Twenty bags of back letter mail were received overland here to-day and forwarded to California."

A CHILD'S NOTION.—"Pa," said a young urchin of tender years, to his parent, "does the Lord take the papers?" "Why do you ask such a question?" "Because our preacher when he prays, is so long telling him everything, I thought he wasn't posted." Yes, it must have been the Old Boy who suggested that.

The cost of constructing the new levees at Sacramento is estimated at $200,000 by the Commissioners.

Massachusetts pays for a war tax under the first war tax bill, $1,797,115.

SEWING MACHINES

ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR

BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION

—AND—

Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make a TIGHT LOCK STITCH, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle, curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer; should stitch, fell, run and gather, and should be always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk, above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel.
